CONDITION OF LADYSMITH

Considered Hopeless, and it is Claimed General Whita Must Either Surrender or Make a Dash for Liberty. To Prevent Foreign Intervention, Navy Must be Mobilised and More Troops Called Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Advices from London indicate that military associates of General White are of the opinion that he will make a desperate attempt to break through the Boer lines and escape from Ladysmith; that though such a movement would cost a tremendous sacrifice of life, it would be preferable to surrender to the Boers. The statement that Lord Roberts advised the abandonment of Ladysmith; is not generally credited in London, but in ylew of the fact that the supply of provisions will not hold out for more than a week longer, it is not probable that any aid can be rendered to General White inside of that time, and he will have but two courses open—surrender, or cut his way out. Several military experts in London are of the opinion that the British in Kimberley at Modder river and on the Tugels will also be left to work out their own salvation. One critic says:

"As to an advance northward through the Free State, if, as appears probable, the British commander has to keep nearly all of Euller's army on the line. Substitute of the British in Rimberley at Modder river and on the Tugels will also be left to work out their own salvation. One critic says:

"As to an advance northward through the Free State, if, as appears probable, the British in Carlon are not the opinion for the British in Kimberley at Modder river and on the Tugels will also be left to work out their own salvation. One critic says:

the British commander has to keep nearly all of Buller's army on the line of the Tugela, a new army will have to make the advance on Bloemfontein There is no use disguising the fact that the imperial forces in South Africa are not strong enough at present to undertake this advance with safety."

The Daily Telegraph says:
"It is a terrible alternative when we have to balance against each other the safety of the brave men in the beleaguered camp and the only rational policy of carrying on the war. It has to be faced without sentiment or unavailing regret."

The Daily Mail says: "Such a move could not be made with sufficient speed to save Ladysmith. It would seem that the soundest military would seem that the soundest military principles dictate the reinforcement of our army in Natal and a fresh advance, this time in ample force.

Between Two Firen.

"There are two dangers to be guarded against—foreign intervention and further military disaster in South Africa. To meet the first the whole navy should be mobilized and the na-navy should be mountained and the val reserves called out. Our squadrons should be distributed in the proper position for war. The volunteers should be put under arms and provided with transport and artillery. The remnant of militia should be embodied. A force of at least one hundred thousand men over and above the volunteers and militia is required to supply our generals' needs in South Africa. If it cannot be raised on terms of voluntary service. we must have drafting, as in the Uni-ted States during the Civil war."

The London Post says: "There is a rumor that General Kitchener or Lord Roberts has left Cape Town already to take command of a movement by General Gatacre's and General French's combined forces, with heavy additions of fresh troops against the Orange Free State.

"The defeat is bitter, but it is right to face it, while it is wrong to conceal from ourselves. The meeting of the defense committee on Saturday probably was caused by a knowledge of General Buller's retreat, though the fact was kept from the public until Sunday.

"The measures now urgently needed are development of the military re-would have hardly had a show, and to conform to this plan where naturally everything is against us. Is there a single soldier who can justify what have done on other than political pleas? Not one. We know from his own pen that General White was induced by one of Mr. Chamberlain's deputies to disastrously change his plans. We know that General Buller, after working up to the original plan of marching on Bloemfontein, was persuaded by somebody to give it up, and he was persuaded within three days. That is a pretty problem for parliament to whet its wits on for the opening day."

News Held Back.

The war office continues to hold back definite news in regard to the casualties at Spion Kop, resulting from Wednesday's battle, but reports from various sources state that the British losses were even greater than indicated in the Boer dispatches of Sunday night. One report states that the British casualties exceeded 1,800 dead and 1,000 wounded. In view of the large number of officers reported killed-twice as many as at Magersfontein, and four times as many es at Colenso, there is reason to fear that the Boer report of the British losses will prove nearly accurate.

Several special dispatches from London state, owing to some blunder, the British soldiers were short of ammuni-tion in Wednesday's battle on Spion Kop, and that they were forced to meet a rain of shot and shell from the Boers with bayonets. The authorities at the war office strongly deny these stories, averring that if bayonets were used, it was because the commanders consider ed that weapon would, under the cir-cumstances, be more effective.

Accounts from Pretoria and Spearman's Camp, while in conflict on many points, agree in rendering a hearty tribute to the gallantry and stubborn courage displayed on both sides. Both the British and the Dutch had foemen worthy of their steel.

The stock market threw off its lethargy and inertness to-day in a very impressive manner. There was quite an active demand for stocks from the start in the shape of buying orders, ac comulated over night, and the demand gathered volume and urgency pretty steadily throughout the day. The rise was so considerable at some points as to invite profit taking, but offerings on this account were absorbed with such confidence that the selling soon such confidence that the selling soon cased, and the market closed with an upward course of prices and burst of animation at the best prices of the day. Although there was a substantial increase in what Wall street calls outside interest, ineaning orders coming by telegraph from different points in the country, as well as from sources in the city outside the ranks of the habitual speculators, the market must still be described as largely professional. The strength was also to a great extent spotty. That is to say, a comparatively few stocks or groups of stocks rose buoyantly, while the large part of the list moved in a more sedate manner, but still upward. But while this is true of a perspective view of the whole market, but embracing many dormant stocks.

It has been manifest for some time that the hoating supply of stocks rose many considerable demand, but this and any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supple of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices moved easily on any considerable demand, but this and supply of stocks was small and that prices m ceased, and the market closed with an everything eise seemed unavailing to invite any considerable demand. Even the obvious unwillingness of prices to go down and the determined ignoring of the depressing influences reflected from the London market have seemed until to-day to be viewed with apathy by the speculative public. The events have, of course, tended to build up a confidence in the stability of values, and, apparently, it needed only some special incident to crystallize sentiment into an active buving movement. The special incident to crystallise sentiment into an active buying movement. The action of the directors of the American Steel & Wire Company yesterday in setting saide a year's dividend for the common stock at the rate of seven persented in the handsome showing presented in the balance sheet of list provisions were weak and lower. The work of the provisions were weak and lower. The provisions were weak and lower. The provisions were weak and lower. The year's business was the effective inci-dent. There was a rush to buy American Steel & Wire at the opening, and quotations were a full point apart on running sales. The stock scored a sub-sequent advance which carried it up an extreme five points. Its net gain is 4%c. This aggressive strength had marked sympathetic effect on all the metal stocks, all the more so on account of the extreme depression from which they have long suffered. There was a large demand from an eager short interest in sugar, and the prevailing cold weather resulted in a sudden jump in the price of the coalers. In the railroad list and the grangers and all the Pacific and southwestern stocks were in notable demand, but the whole list was strong. The only thing to account for the sudden drop of 11%c. in Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis was a report of a new Pittsburg-Chicago line in contemplation. Chesapeake & Ohlo was heavy, perhaps in-sympathy. The first two hours' of trading recorded as many sales as the recent average for a full day's busi-ness. While the market is still largely professional, the calibre of the opera-tors is obviously much heavier than those recently evidence, individual tran-sactions of a thousand and upward

CHICAGO-Persistent liquidation, an

Provisions were weak and lower. The weakness of hiogs was partly responsible for this, but the report of the Orange Judd Farmer that there were 6-10 per cent more hogs in the country now than at the same period last year was the main consideration.
